

More contact from heat source will lead to more effective extraction.